  - Extension of export prohibitions: establishment of a new regime for the export ban on coal, including a cap on the exemptions relating to total exports to all United Nations Member States, with the power to determine the cap attributed to the Sanctions Committee and the export ban extended to new items, namely, statues, new helicopters and vessels, copper, nickel, silver and zinc;

  - Permissible derogation of the aforementioned prohibitions by means of exemptions granted by the Sanctions Committee, on a case-by-case basis, including when it has determined that an exemption may facilitate the work of international and non-governmental organizations;
- Council Regulation (EU) No. 2017/330 of 27 February 2017 amending Regulation (EC) No. 329/2007 concerning restrictive measures against the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, which gives effect to the measures provided in Council Decision (CFSP) 2017/345.

Germany has also adopted the national legislation outlined below, which requires authorization for the sale, supply, transfer or export of arms and related materiel<sup>2</sup> to third countries and authorization for the provision of brokering services and other services related to military activities. Together with Council Decision (CFSP) 2016/849, this legislation provides the basis for enforcing the arms embargo against the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the ban on related brokering services.

The sale, export and transit of arms and related materiel are prohibited under the Federal Foreign Trade and Payments Ordinance, specifically, section 74 (1) (5). Section 75 (1) (5) thereof prohibits trafficking and brokering transactions relating to arms and related materiel that are directly or indirectly destined for persons, organizations or institutions in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. The import of banned goods from the Democratic People's Republic of Korea into Germany and the transport of banned goods aboard a vessel or aircraft entitled to fly the German flag are also prohibited under the Ordinance (sect. 77 (1) (1) (2)).

The Council regulations mentioned above are binding in their entirety and directly applicable in all member States of the European Union. By Regulation (EC) No. 329/2007, member States are required to determine the penalties applicable to infringements of their provisions. The penalties determined by Germany for any infringement of the sectoral trade embargo and the arms embargo against the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, as well as the ban on related brokering services, are set out in the Federal Foreign Trade and Payments Ordinance, especially sections 80, 81 and 82, and in sections 17, 18 and 19 of the Federal Foreign Trade and Payments Act.

As regards restrictions on admissions (visa ban), the general legislation of Germany concerning aliens, along with Council Decision (CFSP) 2016/849 concerning restrictive measures against the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and repealing Decision 2013/183/CFSP, and Council Regulations (EC) No. 539/2001 and (EC) No. 810/2009, together provide the basis for refusing admission and denying requests for a visa. These regulations require nationals of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea to be in possession of a visa when entering the European Union. The travel restrictions are implemented through the visa application process.
